Kaiservilla

by Paulinus

The Kaiservilla in Bad Ischl¹, Upper Austria, was the summer residence of Emperor Franz Joseph I² and Empress Elisabeth of Austria³, known as Sisi. The villa is surrounded by a large park in the English Style. The architectural ensemble in its contemporary form was completed in 1860. Construction was significantly slowed by the fact that it could not proceed during the summer months due to the presence of the royal family. Today, the mansion is home to the Archduke Markus, but also offers grounds tours to the public

A painstakingly accurate reconstruction by Paulinus brings the splendour of this historical residence to 3DX.
